FIBROMYALGIA, MUSCLE PAIN AND DYSFUNCTION

Presented by Michael Schneider, DC, PhD

February 28-March 1, 2015

Saturday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. (lunch provided)

Sunday 8 a.m. - 12 p.m.

13 hours of continuing education

University of Western States - 2900 NE 132nd Ave., Portland, Ore., 97230 - Hampton Hall

This course is designed to translate the complex neurologic mechanisms and principles of neuromuscular control and pain into easy-to-understand terms for the practicing clinician. Fibromyalgia syndrome is often confused with myofascial pain syndrome, and the two conditions will be clearly differentiated. The program will also feature a detailed discussion about how and why muscles become painful and dysfunctional, coupled with the best current evidence on how to manage these conditions.

Fibromyalgia, Muscle Pain and Dysfunction

February 28-March 1, 2015
Portland, Oregon

Speaker provided by NCMIC

Michael Schneider, DC, PhD has been a chiropractor in private practice for 27 years and has extensive experience with fibromyalgia syndrome, numerous soft tissue techniques and many rehabilitation protocols. He has taught post-graduate courses on these subjects for more than 15 years. He completed a PhD in rehabilitation science at the University of Pittsburgh, where he has a full time faculty position as an Assistant Professor in the School of Health and Rehabilitation Sciences.

Dr. Schneider recently published two systematic reviews of the literature; one on fibromyalgia syndrome and one on myofascial pain syndrome. He has also published numerous articles and textbook chapters on various aspects of muscle pain and dysfunction, and has a comprehensive understanding of the soft tissue and rehabilitation literature. Dr. Schneider has lectured to chiropractors, physical therapists, massage therapists, and other bodyworkers; translating the scientific principles of muscle pain and dysfunction into easy-to-understand terms.
